Part 145: Repair Stations Level 1: For anyone in aviation.

§ 145.219 Recordkeeping.

- (a) A certificated repair station must retain records in English that demonstrate compliance with the requirements of part 43. The records must be retained in a format acceptable to the FAA.
- (b) A certificated repair station must provide a copy of the maintenance release to the owner or operator of the article on which the maintenance, preventive maintenance, or alteration was performed.
- (c) A certificated repair station must retain the records required by this section for at least 2 years from the date the article was approved for return to service.
- (d) A certificated repair station must make all required records available for inspection by the FAA and the National Transportation Safety Board.

Question 1: An FAA-certificated repair station located in a foreign country must retain all records required by part 145 in English.

A—True

B—False. Regardless of its location, a repair station exercising the privileges of an FAA-issued part 145 air agency certificate must comply with § 145.219\(a\) by maintaining records demonstrating compliance with part 43 in English.

Question 3: The FAA may inspect all records required by part 145, including those with commercially sensitive and/or proprietary information.

A—True. § 145.219\(d\) states that the repair station is to make all required records available for inspection. Therefore, the repair station should first determine whether the requested record is “required” under 14 CFR (not just part 145) and if so, provide a written statement that the records cannot be released in response to a FOIA request due to the commercially sensitive and/or proprietary nature of the information. Additionally, “available for inspection” does not mean provide a copy, so if any records are taken off premises, the repair station may ask they be returned after the agency’s perusal to prevent disclosure or misplacement.

B—False.

Question 2: The repair station must provide a copy of the entire work record package to the owner or operator of the article on which the maintenance, preventive maintenance, or alteration was performed.

A—True.

B—False. § 145.219\(b\) requires that the repair station provide a copy of the maintenance release to the owner or operator; this paragraph does not require that all the work records produced by the repair station be provided.

Question 4: Records establishing compliance with the requirements of part 43 must be retained for 5 years.

A—True.

B—False. The records required by this section showing compliance with part 43 must be maintained for at least 2 years from the date the article was returned to service.
